2019 DANJ Fall Conference
Everything Counts: Making Sense of Government Data and Statistics
Friday, October 25, 2019
Prudence Hall
Thomas Edison State University
Co-sponsor
LibraryLinkNJ—The New Jersey Library Cooperative
The Documents Association of New Jersey promotes the use of and access to government publications in libraries in the NJ area.

Our objectives are:

- To establish a forum for discussion of problems and opportunities, and for the exchange of ideas by librarians working with government information.
- To provide a platform for initiating and supporting programs that promote access to, use, and bibliographic control of documents.
- To facilitate communication among documents personnel and other library personnel.
- To contribute to the continuing education and training of librarians working with government information.

DANJ participates in various activities:

- State, Federal, and International Documents Interest Groups meet to discuss current issues and initiate projects in their respective areas of interest.
- DANJ publishes a newsletter several times a year.
- The association holds an annual conference.
- It also sponsors educational programs.

All are welcome to attend the bi-monthly meetings. For times and locations visit: www.danj.org/events

JENNIFER BOETTCHER

Open Government Data: Understanding Open Access vs. Public Domain

Jennifer Boettcher is the Business and Economic Reference Librarian at Georgetown University and was formerly Business Librarian at Texas A&M University. As an Adjunct Professor at the Catholic University of America, she teaches business librarianship in the School of Library and Information Science. Her research focuses on government sources. She co-authored a book, with Leonard Gaines, Industry Research Using the Economic Census: How to Find It, How to Use It (Greenwood Press, 2004). Her previous book is Key Business Sources in the U.S. Government (ALA RUSA, 1998). Jennifer Boettcher received her master’s degree in Library Science from SUNY-Albany, and International Executive MBA from Georgetown University.

DAVID J. KRAIKER

Census Data and American Factfinder

David Kraiker is Data Dissemination and GIS Specialist for the U.S. Census Bureau. He has worked for the Bureau for the last 22 years: first in the Geography Department, then moving into the Data Dissemination Branch. David’s presentation will explain the differences between the Decennial Census and the on-going, and more comprehensive American Community Survey (ACS). Using the new platform, data.census.gov, he will demonstrate how to find economic, social, housing, and demographic datasets. He holds a B.A. from Clark University (Worcester, MA), and a MSc from Rutgers-Newark. David lives in South Orange with his wife and children where he is active in community improvement.

LISA DELUCA

Quantitative Scholarship Directions for Presidential Studies

Lisa DeLuca is the Social Sciences librarian at Seton Hall’s University Libraries, a private Roman Catholic institution in South Orange, NJ. Her research promotes the use of publicly available data, digital collections, and geospatial resources as teaching tools to enhance scholarship for faculty and students. At SHU, Lisa is the liaison to the School of Diplomacy and International Relations and the Departments of Political Science and History. She received a bachelor’s degree from Cornell University, an MLIS from Rutgers University, and a 2018 MPA from Seton Hall with a concentration in Data Visualization. She co-manages SHU’s Digital Commons Institutional Repository including seeking out and promoting new collections and creating open access journals for the SHU community. Lisa is also co-managing Data Management efforts for students and faculty which will include a Data Services help desk to assist students with cleaning Excel data, and support with SPSS, R, Stata, and Tableau.
